

BEST DRAG RACE OF THE WEEKEND

Johnny K vs. Bob Kurgan

What happened >> It was really hard to choose the best drag race at this event because there were so many that stood out. Specifically, one that will be remembered was in the BFGoodrich Tires Drag Radial category. John Kolivas had pretty much clinched the DR title for the year and yet still had his eye on the prize in BG, rocking an 8.10 during eliminations and making it to the finals. Kurgan was also on a tear, taking down Dave Hopper and Chad Doyle (with an 8.16) to face Kolivas in the final radial match of the year.

Why it's cool >> Kolivas was kicking so much ass in BFGoodrich Tires Drag Radial this past season that the saying "Everybody's afraid of Johnny K" became a common PA announcement every time he lined his ride up to the line, but not everyone was afraid in BG. In true Kolivas fashion he busted a stellar .001 light to Kurgan's decent .033, but Kurgan's ride was able to launch way out in front of Kolivas in a way that was reminiscent of his days in EFI Renegade. Kurgan was then able to stay in front of the speeding turbo car the entire length of the track and grab the event win and off-season bragging rights. Kurgan ran 8.24 at 165 to Kolivas' 8.39 at 172.

The Final Score >> The Flyin' Hawaiian wins by .12
